Editorial Quality

Judge Number One

Overall, nice job on this newsletter. The articles are interesting and relevant to the intended audience. In general, editing is well done, and close adherence to a style guide is noted.

Judge Number Two

I did enjoy the articles. You have a very informative newsletter that offers a lot of educational material in an easy read. I especially liked the Summer 2002 edition where a particular "theme" was carried throughout the issue.

Design and Delivery

Judge Number One

The Usability Interface is consistently one of my favorite SIG newsletters because of its clean, easy-to-read design. Graphics are used where appropriate and they are always rendered for optimal load time on the Web. I also noticed that you're using cascading styles. Nice job with the implementation!

This has nice stock, and I like the use of color on the front and back. The quality of included graphics was good.
